

'Every week we used to have all the family round to our place. Then all of a sudden I wasn't allowed to see them anymore. That was a sad time. Now we can meet at the Children's Contact Service and can enjoy family times again.'

Here for the children

Children are our focus. We aim to make them feel safe and comfortable. We have toys, games and play equipment. Also, to assist children to become familiar and feel comfortable with the service, we ask that they visit us before their first Changeover or Supervised Contact Visit.

Here for you

The service is friendly, confidential and safe. We are professional and sensitive to a diversity of family backgrounds and special needs. We can also help parents to develop their own ways of managing parenting arrangements.

Fees

Fees are applicable for the use of the Children's Contact Service. These will be addressed during the intake and assessment process. Fee reductions are available for concession card holders.

Children's Contact Service is subsidised by the Australian Government. As these subsidies do not fully cover the costs of all services it is necessary to charge fees. We keep our fees as low as possible. Special arrangements may be negotiated for people who find it difficult to pay.

Keeping in contact

Our Children's Contact Service helps children stay connected to all members of their family after a family separation.

Family separations can be tough. For a whole number of reasons it can be hard for families to manage parenting arrangements, and for children to spend time with both parents and extended family.

'I used to worry about mum and dad's fighting. But now we meet at the Children's Contact Service and I don't worry anymore.'

Who is it for?

Families who have been through separation and are finding it difficult to manage parenting arrangements. It's for children, young people, parents and extended family.

How does it work?

We offer a 'Changeover' and a 'Supervised Contact Visit' service.

The Changeover service is when children and young people are calmly moved between their separated parents or other family members by our workers.

Supervised Contact Visits are blocks of time children spend with a parent or family member at the service. These visits happened with the supervision of a worker. They can be arranged when both parties agree on it, or if court ordered.

We provide a safe environment for everyone.

We provide separate entrances so that parties do not meet or see each other.
